

Medical Oncologist
Department of Medicine
Dalhousie University / Nova Scotia Health Authority

The Department of Medicine, Dalhousie University / Nova Scotia Health Authority seeks applications for a position as an academic Medical Oncologist in the Division of Medical Oncology at the QEII Health Sciences Centre, Halifax, Nova Scotia.

The Division of Medical Oncology is one of 15 divisions within the Department of Medicine and provides systemic oncology care for the majority of mainland Nova Scotia as well as serving as a regional center of subspecialized expertise. In addition to playing an important clinical role in the Department, division members have excellent opportunities for collaborative educational and research activities to facilitate rewarding and fulfilling career development.

An attractive remuneration and benefits package through an alternative funding plan will apply. Nova Scotia offers exceptional cultural and recreational opportunities in addition to an outstanding quality of life in all domains.

Candidates must hold FRCPC certification in Internal Medicine and subspecialty certification in Medical Oncology (or equivalent specialty certification). Academic appointment ranking will be based on qualifications and experience.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply, however Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority. Dalhousie University is committed to fostering a collegial culture grounded in diversity and inclusiveness. The university encourages applications from Aboriginal people, persons with a disability, racially visible persons, women, and persons of minority sexual orientations and gender identities.

To apply for this position, please send a cover letter, Curriculum Vitae and names and addresses of three referees to: Dr. Daniel Rayson, c/o Chad Shearer by email at chad.shearer@nshealth.ca. Queries can be addressed to Dr. Rayson by email at chad.shearer@nshealth.ca.

Closing date for applications is March 9, 2020.
